

I Hold On

Holly Williams & Chris Janson

Like a flame that never dies, I hold on for you
I flicker in the wind but I still burn for you
My reflection in the mirror is gone
And like a widow to her lover, I hold on
Like a leaf in mid October, I still change for you
I'd fall on the cold hard ground in the pouring rain for you
But I used to move on easy, I was strong
I know I shouldn't linger but I hold on
So paint a picture of my memory to hold on to Just remember I was the one that you belonged to
My heart is pouring out here in this song
Like a song without an ending, I hold on
My heart is pouring out here in this song
Like a widow to her lover, I hold on
