

Daydreamer (Dillon Francis Remix)

Flux Pavilion

And we're all daydreamin' now, escape to another world
Live for another day, escape to another world
And we're all daydreamin' now, escape to another world
Live for another day, I'm a hood daydreamer now

We spend our life in the rain, every day feels the same
When I awake in the morning no, no
We feel like our work is done and sit and wait for the sun
But it's hot in our eyes

We spend our life in the rain, every day feels the same
When I awake in the morning no, no
We feel like our work is done
And sit and wait for the sun, so young
And we're all daydreamin' now, escape to another world
Live for another day, escape to another world
And we're all daydreamin' now, escape to another world
Live for another day

We feel like our work is done and sit and wait for the sun
So young, I'm a hood daydreamer now

Don't have to be told, don't have to grow old
Don't have to be told, don't have to grow old
Don't have to be told, don't have to grow old, and we're all daydreamin' now
Don't have to be told, don't have to grow old

Don't have to be told, don't have to grow old
Don't have to be told, don't have to grow old
Don't have to be told, don't have to grow old, and we're all daydreamin' now
Don't have to be told, don't have to grow old

Don't have to be told, don't have to grow old, and we're all daydreamin' now
Don't have to be told, escape to another world, live for another day
Don't have to grow old, live for another day
Don't have to be told, live for another day

Don't have to grow old, live for another day
Don't have to be told, live for another day
Don't have to grow old. live for another day
And we're all daydreamin' now

