

Memories of a Broken Heart

Crown the Empire

As I stare into these ruins made by man
I tremble as I realize it's the end
More and more I wonder what we could have done
But instead we wage a war that can't be won
Yeah instead we wage a war that can't be won I stand on the ash of all I've ever loved
Memories of a broken heart
Now I'm alone in the dark. I know there's a way out when all hope is gone
Find your light in a new dawn
But there's no way to do this on our own
I search for solace in this waste
That I once called home
But my attempts of piecing life together leaves me alone
I can't repair what's been done
When the sky is as black as the ground that I walk on But I can't give up on this
I have to wonder what we could have done
I have to wonder
But instead we wage a war that can't be won I stand on the ash of all I've ever loved
Memories of a broken heart
Now I'm alone in the dark. I know there's a way out when all hope is gone
Find your light in a new dawn
But there's no way to do this on our own.
You think that this is the end?
You're wrong
This is the start of a new generation
I stand on the ash of all I've ever loved
Memories of a broken heart
Now I'm alone in the dark
I know there's a way out when all hope is gone
Find your light in a new dawn
But there's no way to do this on our own.

Lyrics provided by <https://www.songarea.com/>