

La Dispute

Yann Tiersen

Anyway, I can try anything it's the same circle that leads to nowhere and I'm tired now

Anyway, I've lost my face, my dignity, my look, everything is gone and I'm tired now

But don't be scared, I found a good job and I go to work every day on my old bicycle you loved

I am piling up some unread books under my bed and I really think i'll never read again

No concentration, just a white disorder everywhere around me, you know I'm so tired now

Don't worry I often go to dinners and parties with some old friends who care for me, take me back home and stay

Monochrome floors, monochrome walls, only absence near me, nothing but silence around me

Monochrome flat, monochrome life, only absence near me, nothing but silence around me

Sometimes I search an event or something to remind me, but I've really got nothing in mind

Sometimes I open the windows and listen people walking in the down streets. There is a life out there

But don't be scared, I found a good job and I go to work every day on my old bicycle you loved

Anyway, I can try anything it's the same circle that leads to nowhere and I'm tired now

Anyway, I've lost my face, my dignity, my look, everything is gone gone and I'm tired now

But don't be scared, I found a good job and I go to work every day on my old bicycle you loved

Don't worry I often go to dinners and parties with some old friends who care for me, take me
back home and stay

Monochrome floors, monochrome walls, only absence near me, nothing but silence around me

Monochrome flat, monochrome life, only absence near me, nothing but silence around me

Lyrics provided by <https://www.songarea.com/>