

Golf On TV (feat. JP Saxe)

Lennon Stella

I woke up to the bed made
And you're downstairs
Doing the dishes And my mom's there
She's kind of obsessed with you
I think that I might be too
She thinks that you're good for me
That's not something I'm used to I keep getting overwhelmed
When I talk about us out loud
'Cause I want you, only you
It's simple as you want me too Some people wanna switch it up
Like just one love could never be enough
Some people watch golf on TV
But neither of those things make sense to me
Some people think it's supposed to hurt
Like it couldn't be real if it's putting you first
But some people watch golf on TV
And neither of those things make sense to me You just been so consistent, that stability
It's so healthy, it's confusing me
I'm done with romanticizing
Dysfunction and compromising You treat me so well, it's weird
But I love how much I like it Some people wanna switch it up
Like just one love could never be enough
But some people watch golf on TV
And neither of those things make sense to me Some people think it's supposed to hurt
Like it couldn't be real if it's putting you first
But some people watch golf on TV
And neither of those things make sense to me
If the old me met the new me
She'd probably try to stop me
But I want you and only you
It's as simple as you want me too Some people wanna switch it up
Like just one love could never be enough
(Never be, never be, never be enough)
But some people watch golf on TV
And neither of those things make sense to me Some people think it's supposed to hurt
Like it couldn't be real if it's putting you first (Putting you, putting you, putting you first)
But some people watch golf on TV
And neither of those things make sense to me
