

Luna

The Dangerous Summer

We began to grow ourselves as we watch you from the window
And I can hardly believe
I count all the seconds and all of the minutes
I just want to be there
Don't want to miss it, no
It's all because of you And the truth
You're gonna face the world one day
Try not to let it contain you
You were cut from the same cloth
You were born with your mother's heart
Just stay wild as long as you can 'cause you are free
And you are the architect to all your dreams
Someday I won't be around to guide you home
So I wrote this down
You can read it if you want or you can bury it inside of your head
You fill my heart to the edge You're gonna face the world one day
Try not to let it consume you
You were cut from the same cloth
You were born with your mother's heart
Just stay wild as long as you can 'cause you are free
And you are the architect to all your dreams
Where did the time go?
I was running from the sundown in my head
I will always walk beside your love
I would never give you up for anything
Try not to let them hurt you
Try not to let them win
Try not to let them hurt you
Try not to let them win To all your dreams
To all your dreams

Lyrics provided by <https://www.songarea.com/>