Body Architects

Tommy Lee

I'm starting from scratch i'm putting the pieces together day by day, one by one, i'm the only one my surroundings affect the structure, of my state of mind just when you think everything is fine the foundation cracks, in a fraction of time so look in the mirror, it doesn't lie We, we all forget
that we're the architects of the bodies we inhabit
we, we all forget
that we're the architects of the bodies we inhabit I skipped the school of the learned for the, majority but i figured it out the hard way my own way, the only way and it made me stronger, bigger than the rest i'm the architect that knows my body best
We, we all forget
that we're the architects of the bodies we inhabit
we, we all forget
that we're the architects of the bodies we inhabit
We rock the party that rocks the body
we rock the party that rocks the body everybody come on, show me what you got
we rock the party that rocks the body
we rock the party that rocks the body everybody come on, come on we're the architects of the bodies we inhabit
We, we all forget
that we're the architects of the bodies we inhabit
we, we all forget
that we're the architects of the bodies we inhabit (repeat)

Lyrics provided by https://www.songarea.com/