

On the Edge

Tokio Hotel

Its getting light outside

She is still there but no one cares

They sang her Happy Birthday yesterday without her

Do you want to see yourself flying through the night?

This gift is what you need

You're gonna be alright

Eyes close and fall

Her first time on the edge

The scars will stay forever

Side by side with death

A moment that feels better

Darkness and light are blinding her sight

She's not coming back

Its getting light outside

She cannot sleep 'cause time stands still

Someone's hand is touching her, she has no will

Each time when it hurts, she just feels so alone

She doesn't care at all

Her memories have long gone

Eyes close and fall

And closer to the edge

The scars will stay forever

Side by side with death

This time feels even better

Darkness and light are blinding her sight

She's not coming back

She shuts the door

She longs for more and more

And more

She shuts the door

She longs for more and more

And more

Just once more

Everyone is watching

Her arms are so sore

But she doesn't care anymore

And falling from the edge

The scars will stay forever

Side by side with death

This last time even better

Darkness and light are blinding her sight

She's not coming back

Not coming back

The sky is casting over

Her last wish stays unsaid

Lyrics provided by <https://www.songarea.com/>