

A Dozen Roses and a Six-Pack

Cole Swindell

There's that flower shop on Main.
Lord, it's been too long since it's seen my face.
I probably should have stopped by yesterday.
And just a few miles from our house
There's a neon sign flashing "Coldest beer in town".

Is she gone for good? Well it's hard to say,
But I'm gonna be ready either way.

I got a dozen roses if she comes back home,
One for every time I left her lonely waiting on me.
Why did it take so long to see?
And this six pack might not be enough,
But it's a damn good start if we're ending us.
We'll either work it out or we won't.
But I've got a dozen roses if she comes back home
And a six-pack if she don't.

I'm praying love will bring her back.
Oh, just one more chance is all I'll ever ask.
I sure hope she ain't a memory yet,
But she left a book there on the bed.
Would a woman leave a man like that?

I got a dozen roses if she comes back home,
One for every time I left her lonely waiting on me.
Why did it take so long to see?
And this six pack might not be enough,
But it's a damn good start if we're ending us.
We'll either work it out or we won't.
But I've got a dozen roses if she comes back home
And a six-pack if she don't.

Is she gone for good? Well it's hard to say,
But I'm gonna be ready either way.

I got a dozen roses if she comes back home,
One for every time I left her lonely waiting on me.
Baby, why did it take so long to see?
And this six pack might not be enough,
But it's a damn good start if we're ending us.
We'll either work it out or we won't.
But I've got a dozen roses if she comes back home

I've got this dozen roses in case she comes back home
And a six-pack if she don't.
And a six-pack if she don't.

Lyrics provided by <https://www.songarea.com/>