

You Don't Care About Me

Shakira

I fold your t-shirts, and I strip your bed
I loved you perfect, but there's no appreciation
I listen sweetly to your sour tongue
I loved you only, but there's no reciprocation Before you came along, it was all beautiful
I have nothing left in my heart, in my soul
Should have never helped you become so powerful
But I saw a champion in your eyes You don't care about me
If you did, you would let me go
You will eventually
'Cause you just don't care about me You don't care if I die
If you did, you would have spared my life
I say it confidently
That you just don't care about me
You say you're thirsty, so I pour the wine
The bottle's empty, but there's no consummation Before you came along, it was all beautiful
I have nothing left in my heart, in my soul
Should have never helped you become so powerful
But I saw a champion in your eyes You don't care about me
If you did, you would let me go
You will eventually
'Cause you just don't care about me You don't care if I die
If you did, you would have spared my life
I say it confidently
That you just don't care about me Oh, baby, how we used to dance
I couldn't separate from your hands
Now they don't even play that song anymore
You don't care about me
No, don't care about me, no
Don't care about me
You don't care about me, no
Don't care about me (no!) You don't care about me
If you did, you would let me go
You will eventually
'Cause you just don't care about me You don't care if I die
If you did, you would have spared my life
I say it confidently
That you just don't care about me
